

The following media gallery contains several images of scenic illusion paintings and perspective sketches from Imperial Illusions. It contains several related videos: a brief virtual tour of Juanqinzhai, the Studio of Exhaustion from Diligent Service; three lectures given in conjunction with “The Emperor’s Private Paradise: Treasures from the Forbidden City” in 2011, when the exhibition was on display at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York; and a tour of the Qianlong Garden with NBC correspondent Matt Lauer. It also contains an interview between author Kristina Kleutghen and UBC history professor Carla Nappi as part of the “New Books in East Asian Studies” series of podcasts.

(The first four videos will open directly from the site; for the Qianlong Garden video, the link will take you to the Peabody Essex Museum site where you’ll find a link to the video.)